By responding to this survey, launched at THATCamp Luxembourg/Trier, you will help the Digital Humanities community discover its extent and diversity, as well as its geographical and linguistic composition. We hope you will be willing to participate in this survey and thus improve understanding of our community. This questionnaire, which is an initiative of the Centre for Open Publishing (Cleo) and OpenEdition.org, is a contribution to the Humanistica Project: towards a European association for the Digital Humanities, building on the ideas expressed in the Digital Humanities Manifesto and based on a multilingual approach and democratic principles (one person, one vote). Thank you for your contribution!
