

From 1 August to 18 October 2012, the French Army Museum is presenting an exhibition in partnership with the Charles de Gaulle Foundation entitled 'Vive le dessin libre! Charles de Gaulle en caricatures'. The exhibition will be displayed on the pillars of the Cour d'Honneur (the main courtyard) at the Hôtel National des Invalides in Paris.

Charles de Gaulle was a real source of inspiration for press cartoonists, remaining a favourite subject from the Second World War up to his death. The exhibition will showcase around 60 cartoons and press drawings, as well as posters, which illustrate the milestones of contemporary France and the major role played by de Gaulle.

The CVCE is involved as a partner in this exhibition, which had its official inauguration on Wednesday 19 September 2012 at the Cour d'Honneur of the Hôtel National des Invalides in Paris.

The exhibition is free of charge.

Address:

Hôtel National des Invalides (galleries in the Cour d'Honneur)

129 rue de Grenelle

F-75007 Paris

Metro/RER: Invalides station